

STROMER ELITE MOUNTAIN 33

REVIEWER: GWENDAL CASTELLAN

PRICE $4,099 USD/ $3,940 CAD

FIND IT AT STROMER.CA

AVAILABLE in US and Canada bike stores

The Stromer Elite is equipped with a 27 gear Shimano XT derailleur with Shimano SLX shifters and hydraulic disc brakes. The quiet, brushless and gearless motor has a designed maximum speed of 21 mph (33 km/h) and depending on the pedal-assist mode used has a range of 19-50 miles (30-80 km). Comes with powerful, integrated front and rear lights that feed off of the main battery. This bike weighs 62 lbs (28 kg). We chose the City Kit that added a rack, lights, kickstand, fenders and mudguard for an additional $250.

TELL YOUR FRIENDS

This is a mature looking ride that has been designed as a robust electric bike. The bicycle achieves seamlessness in the ride. It is possible to ride this bicycle for a while and forget that you have a pedal-assist.

WISH LIST

While this bike was exceptionally comfortable, I couldn't help but notice that the bike was pretty hefty looking, a sleeker and more urban look would make my wife want to buy one too.

IDEAL RIDER

The Stromer is definitely a premium electric bicycle and you certainly get what you pay for. This is a very solid, sleek and shiny bicycle that will easily turn heads. If you want to be noticed, this might be the Prius of e-bikes.

OVERALL

There are very few moments that pull you away from a dreamy, effortless ride. Everything on the Stromer works and appears to be built to last, which is good because if it does last long enough you will eventually forget the price tag.
